THE FRANKLIN TYPEWRITER

Admired by Educated and Influential Men.

When such men as Ben Harrison, editorial writer of the Times-Union and Citizen, of Jacksonville, Fla., and John N. Rogers, County Superintendent of the Board of Education, of Sandersville, Ga., do voluntarily declare the Franklin to be the most practical and durable of all standard machines, and that they would use no other, then it must have superior qualities. The writing is visible without lifting the carriage. The mechanism is so simple that a child can learn it. No trust combine controls the price. Therefore you can buy it for $75, on terms to suit your pocketbook.

Good second-hand Franklins for $25, and upwards.

Your inquiries by mail, or in person, will receive courteous and prompt attention.

More Important State Laws.

Some of the State papers are publishing the following list of the most important acts of the recent Legislature:

An act to authorize the Supreme Court of Florida to select commissioners to assist the court in the performance of the duties, and prescribing the duties of such commissioners, and providing for their compensation.

An act to amend section 1 of chapter 4147, of the Laws of the State of Florida, entitled an act to regulate the carrying of firearms, approved June 2, 1893.

An act to provide for enlargement and repair of the capitol building, and making an appropriation for such purpose.

An act creating three Congressional districts in the State of Florida, and defining the boundaries of the same, and repealing sections 57 and 58 of the Revised Statutes of the State of Florida.

An act to require all merchants, commission merchants, provision dealers and storekeepers and all other persons selling or offering to sell flour, meal, grits, oats, corn, wheat, rye, bran, beans, potatoes and peanuts, already put up, placed and packed in sacks, bags or barrels, in original packages, to have marked, stamped or stenciled on the sacks, bags or barrels the exact weight thereof in pounds avoirdupois; and to prescribe penalties for making, stamping and stenciling false weights.

An act to provide for the issue, custody, redemption, sale and transfer of tax sale certificates and the issue of tax deeds, and prescribing the duties of certain officers herewith.

An act to provide for the surrender and cancellation of certain tax certificates now held by the State of Florida which have been declared illegal by the Supreme Court of the State of Florida, being for the unpaid taxes for the year 1890, which were sold after August 4, 1891.

An act to regulate the holding of political primary elections in the State of Florida for nominating candidates for any office under the laws of this State, and for nominating delegates to political conventions.

WHAT TWO CENTS WILL DO.

It will bring relief to sufferers from asthma or consumption, even in the worst cases. This is about what one dose of Foley's Honey and Tar costs. Isn't it worth a trial? Dr. J. M. Jones.

Dr. French's Report of Cattle.

At the Farmer's Institute held in the Capitol at Tallahassee recently Dr. French gave the results of his recent investigations of salt sickness among the cattle on the ranges at Narcoossee. The importance of the subject was evidenced by the passing of the resolution by the Legislature requesting the United States Bureau of Animal Industry to send an expert to investigate this disease. The doctor stated that the trouble was confined to the sand ridge section of the state, where it probably caused over half the mortality of young stock. He described the trouble as a condition, rather than disease, which resulted in chronic congestion of the small intestines, impoverished blood, and final death through inability to extract nourishment from food. Lime and sulphate of iron had been found to be correctives. Of the animals treated by him in his work for the Experiment station, 80 per cent. of the cases were entirely cured. He exhibited a brick containing the required medical ingredients, which could be placed on the ranges as a substitute for rock salt, and which the animals could lick and thus cure themselves.

It Is A Mistake.

It takes money to run a newspaper.—St. Johns (Kans.) News.

What an exaggeration and a whooper! It has been disproved a thousand times; it has a clean case of airy fancy. It doesn't take money to run a newspaper. It is a charitable institution, a begging concern, a highway robber. Bigodfrey, a newspaper is a child of the air, a creature of a dream. It can go on and on when any other concern would be in the hands of a receiver and wound up with cobwebs in the windows.

It takes wind to run a newspaper; it takes gall to run a newspaper; it takes a scintillating, acrobatic imagination, a half dozen white shirts and a railroad pass to run a newspaper. But money—Heavens to Betsy, seven hands round—whoever needed money in conducting a newspaper? Kind words are the mediums of exchange that do business for the editor—kind words and church social tickets. When you see an editor with money watch him. He will be paying his bills and disgracing his profession. Never give money to an editor. Make him trade it out. He likes to swap.

Then when you die, after having stood around for years and sneered at the editor and his little jim-crow paper, be sure and have your wife send in for three extra copies by one of your weeping children, and when she reads the generous and touching notice about you, forearm her to neglect to send fifteen cents to the editor. It would overwhelm him. Money is a corrupting thing. The editor knows it, and what he wants is your heartfelt thanks. Then he can thank his grocers.

Take your job work to job offices; and then come and ask for half rates for church notices. Get your lodge letter-heads and stationery printed out of town, flood the editor with beautiful thoughts in resolutions of respect and esteem of thanks. They make such spicy reading; and when you pick it up, filled with these glowing and vivid mortuary articles you are so proud of your local paper. But money—scorn the filthy thing. Don't let the pure innocent editor know anything about it. Keep that for sordid tradespeople, who charge for their wares. The editor gives his bounty away. The Lord loves a cheerful giver. He'll take care of the editor. Don't worry about the editor. He has a charter from the State to act as a door mat for the community.

He will get the paper out somehow, stand up for the town and whoop it up for you when you run for office, and lie about your pigeon-toed daughter's tacky wedding, and blow about your big-footed sons when they get a four-dollar-a-week job, and weep over your shriveled soul when it is released from your grasping body, and smile at your giddy wife's second marriage. Don't worry about the editor; he'll get on. The Lord knows how—but somehow.—Wayne (Neb.) Democrat.

How To Redeem Stamps.

With the beginning of this month the revenue law enacted by the last Congress became effective. The result is many changes in the use of documentary and proprietary stamps and a general reduction in revenues. The public has a very good understanding of the changes which are made in the use of stamps, but there is considerable doubt in the minds of those who have stamps to redeem as to how to proceed in the matter. A circular throwing light upon this subject has been issued by the department at Washington and is as follows:

"As stationers or officers of banks cannot generally make affidavit that their customers are not indebted to the United States; that they are the bona fide owners of the stamps presented for redemption, or to such other facts as are necessary to the support of claims, they cannot be recognized as duly qualified agents for the presentation of claims for their customers. Banks or stationers may, however, purchase imprinted stamps which they procured and sold to their customers, and, as the bona fide owners thereof, present claims in their own names for the redemption of such stamps without regard to the number purchased from each customer.

"In all cases where claims are made by banks or stationers for the redemption of stamps thus purchased, it will be necessary, in addition to evidence now required in support of claims for each claim to be accompanied by a certificate duly signed by the party from whom the stamps were purchased, setting forth the absolute sale and transfer of said stamps to the claimant. Also a schedule prepared by the claimant showing as to the stamps purchased from each customer, the name of the person from whom the stamps were purchased, the date of order upon which they were imprinted, in whose favor the order was issued, the name of the collector who issued the same, and of the contractor who imprinted the stamps, and the number of stamps in each so purchased. Any number of such purchases may be covered by one claim, but each lot of stamps purchased from a customer should be wrapped separately, and the package so marked that it can be identified on the schedule and by the certificate of sale, and all the stamps covered by one claim should be placed together in one package and be marked for identification and forwarded as in other cases.

"Stamped checks may, when it is desirable, be detached from the books and forwarded with the claims for the redemption of the stamps thereon, and the stubs be retained by the owners.

"Adhesive documentary and proprietary, or other revenue stamps, should not be included in or presented with claims for the redemption of imprinted documentary stamps."

Jas. G. Ambertof, Della, O., writes: "I had an obstinate sore on my face which everything else failed to heal. After one application of Banner Salve it began to heal and after three applications it was entirely healed leaving no scar." Dr. J. M. Jones.
